Pyramid Educational Consultants was established in 1992 by Andy Bondy, PhD, and Lori Frost, MS, CCC-SLP, developers of the Picture Exchange Communication System® (PECS®) and the Pyramid Approach to Education®. At Pyramid, it is our goal to help individuals with developmental disabilities, autism, and/or communication challenges learn to shape their own lives and participate in the world around them. Using a blend of broad spectrum applied behaviour analysis and practices supported by research and positive results, we give learners the skills to tell you what they want, what they need, what they see, and the unique educational environments they need to learn and grow towards greater independence.

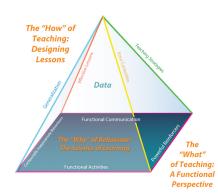

Andy Bondy, PhD and Lori Frost, MS, CCC-SLP

The founders of Pyramid Educational Consultants and developers of PECS and the Pyramid Approach to Education, Dr. Andy Bondy and Lori Frost, are world-renowned experts that have presented to and worked with thousands of families and professionals worldwide, teaching workshops and providing support on PECS, the Pyramid Approach to Education, using B.F. Skinner's Verbal Behaviour, and applied behaviour analysis (ABA). They have authored multiple publications including articles, books, and chapters, and are regarded by professionals in their field as leaders in analyzing and teaching functional communication.

PYRAMID APPROACH TO EDUCATION

The Pyramid Approach to Education is a comprehensive framework for establishing and supporting effective learning environments. Designed by Andy Bondy, PhD, and based on the principles of functional applied behaviour analysis (ABA), The Pyramid Approach offers a solid foundation for those who teach in education, work, home, or community settings. This unique model benefits individuals with developmental differences, autism, communication challenges, and/or other learning complications across all ages.

Maximizing learner outcomes requires not only information about what and how to teach - it requires a plan to put all the pieces together. The Pyramid Approach provides a clear guide for everyone on the team to determine what elements to address in a specific order. Just as building a pyramid begins with establishing a firm foundation before constructing the body of the building, the Pyramid Approach begins with a strong foundation, relying on a science-based approach to teaching.

PICTURE EXCHANGE COMMUNICATION SYSTEM® (PECS®)

PECS is a unique alternative/augmentative communication system developed in 1985 by Andy Bondy, PhD, and Lori Frost. MS, CCC-SLP and was first implemented with pre-school students diagnosed with autism at the Delaware Autism Program. Since then, PECS has successfully been implemented worldwide with thousands of learners of all ages who have various cognitive, physical and communication challenges.

PECS consists of six phases and begins by teaching an individual to give a single picture of a desired item or action to a "communicative partner" who immediately honours the exchange as a request. The system goes on to teach discrimination of pictures and how to put them together in sentences. In the more advanced phases, individuals are taught to use modifiers, answer questions, and comment.

The primary goal of PECS is to teach functional communication. Research has shown that some learners using PECS also develop speech. Others may transition to a speech generating device (SGD). The body of research supporting the effectiveness of PECS as an evidence-based practice is substantial and continues to expand, with more than 150 research articles from all over the world.

According to pediatric guidelines, regarding autism interventions published in PEDIATRICS: The Official Journal of the American Academy of Pediatrics, individuals with autism "who have limited verbal language, or those who do not respond to multiple interventions aimed at improving communication, should be offered the opportunity to use PECS." Further, a Technical Expert Panel consisting of practicioners, researchers, and parents concluded that PECS is one of only a handful of interventions that have shown efficacy in the treatment of autism (Maglione, Gans, Das, Timbie, Kasari and HRSA Autism Intervention Research, 2012).

PECS® CERTIFICATION

Let us help you effectively establish the evidence-based PECS Protocol within your learning environment. Certified PECS Implementers have proven ability to implement all phases of PECS, and to observe and guide those applying PECS. When PECS is implemented correctly. learners reap the greatest benefits. Email canada@pecs.com and our team will help you get started on becoming PECS Certified.

PECS[®] LEVEL 1 TRAINING

2 DAYS • 13 Contact Hours • 13 BACB CEUs

The evidence-based Picture Exchange Communication System® (PECS) is used to rapidly teach communication skills to those with limited functional speech. The PECS Protocol is successfully utilized in learning environments by hundreds of thousands of professionals worldwide.

PECS Level 1 Training is engaging and interactive. It begins by teaching spontaneous request, next teaching additional communicative functions, such as responding to questions and commenting. Learn to implement the six phases of PECS and attributes, utilizing the PAE Approved PECS Protocol. Participants will leave the workshop with an understanding of how to implement the PECS Protocol in classrooms with learners who have complex communication and behavioural needs, such as autism and related disabilities.

An added benefit for preschool children with autism and related disabilities is the high proportion who acquire independent speech. "When three students with autism, ages 5-9, were taught PECS over a period of less than two months, their spoken language consisted of more words and they used more complex grammar in speech." Ganz & Simpson 2004.

Outcomes & Key Benefits:

- ▶ Help Meet IEP Requirements
- Learn classroom instruction strategies
- Identify key components to designing effective educational environments using The Pyramid Approach to Education
- Develop strategies to create an abundance of opportunities for communication
- Identify the relationship between PECS and traditional communication training approaches
- Implement all six phases of PECS using a behaviour analytic orientation
- Identify criteria for transitioning from PECS to other communication modalities

Professional Development Classroom Instruction Behaviour Support Functional Communication Research Based Best Practices Family Engagement Adolescent & Youth Clusion & IEP Support Learning Environment Curriculum Support

The Pyramid Approach to Education,

2nd Edition

by Andy Bondy, Ph.D. 2011, 310 pages

This book provides an integrative approach, blending a behavioural orientation with an emphasis upon functional communication to help design effective educational environments. This approach guides professionals and family members toward asking the right questions to create lessons plans that can be monitored for effectiveness. The Pyramid Approach can be implemented with all age groups and learners with a variety of skill sets. The final chapter provides a detailed description of how the model can be utilized in several types of classrooms. Written in a reader-friendly style.

Available on the App Store and Google Play.

Pyramid Global Partners does not recommend starting functional communication training with an app or a speech generating device as these high-tech options do not require the social interaction that is crucial to communication and is the cornerstone of PECS. Functional communication training should begin with a PECS Communication Book.
